

MICHAEL GILL FELLOWSHIP 2012

The Michael Gill Fellowship provides a stipend of $4,000 to support a documentary project in film or video in the United Kingdom. The Fellowship commemorates the distinguished achievement of Michael Gill, who made many films on both sides of the Atlantic, including the series Civilisation (1969) and Alistair Cooke's America. It will be awarded in even-numbered years to a Harvard student. In odd-numbered years a parallel fellowship will allow a graduate of the National Film and Television School of the U.K. to pursue a documentary film or video project in the United States.

The Gill Fellowship is open to any current or recently graduated student of film or video in the Department of Visual and Environmental Studies. Applicants must submit both a c.v. and a short description of the proposed project on the form below and should be prepared to submit one or more films or videotapes if requested. The application deadline is April 2, 2012.

Application Form (please submit an original plus 5 copies of all parts of the application: this form; your c.v.; and your project description).

Due by 5:00pm Monday, April 2, 2012 either in Paula Soares' office (Carpenter Center 105 or her mailbox in the Carpenter Center Main office).

Name _____

E-mail address: _____

Campus Address and phone _____

On a separate, single page, describe the documentary film or video project you would pursue in the United Kingdom and the work you propose to do on it if you are awarded the fellowship.

Please list the courses you have taken in VES along with the names of the instructors. Underline those in film/video production and briefly describe the final projects you did in those courses (use an additional page if necessary).